

Compliance 360 Adds Software Industry Veteran as Vice President of Marketing

Accelerated Company Growth to be Fueled through Increased Emphasis on Marketing

Atlanta, GA. – July 16, 2008– Compliance 360, a leading provider of on-demand solutions for enterprise governance, risk management and compliance (eGRC), announced today that Scot McLeod, a software industry veteran of 24 years, has joined the company as vice president of marketing.

Prior to joining Compliance 360, McLeod was senior vice president of marketing for CDC Software, which was ranked as the world's 12th largest enterprise application software company in 2007. During his 6-year tenure with the company, McLeod was instrumental in driving vertical market strategies and programs that supported the company's success in new-business sales and double-digit growth rates.

"Through a deep commitment to customer success, and focus on vertical industry specialization, Compliance 360 has been growing rapidly and demonstrating its strong position in the GRC market with an expanding base of successful, satisfied customers," said McLeod. "I'm very excited to join this high caliber organization and look forward to helping the company achieve its full potential."

"We've achieved very strong sales growth for the past 3 years as a result of adding the bench strength in our key functional areas including, services, operations and sales," said Steve McGraw, President and CEO of Compliance 360. "With these foundational teams delivering proven results, we're now focusing on enhancing our marketing efforts as we seek to further accelerate our growth. McLeod brings tremendous experience and a track record of results to our company and we look forward to his contributions going forward."
